Can Ideas Be Deleted? Curriculum in Perspective

18 Can amorphous, important conceptual notions such as secularism, federalism and citizenship be higher secondary school curriculum by the Central Board of Secondary Education lead to the deletion of these ideas from political discourse and public memory? — Papia Sengupta

Induce Spirit of Privatisation in Public Sector Banks

12 Why could the progressive reforms in the public sector banks and the banking sector under the watchful eyes of the government not bring the desired change in the working culture and governance of the PSBs? — Kemba Srinivasa Rao

An Alternate to Survey Methods to Measure Work from Home

15 A most common way to estimate jobs that can be performed from home is by carrying out surveys. However, unavailability of surveys in the home country compels researchers to estimate a work from home index using other countries' surveys. — Mohit Sharma, Sargam Gupta & Xavier Estupinan

Proposing a Bioecological Framework for Elder Abuse in India

20 The article aims to facilitate identification of elder abuse and stimulate discussion around this grave yet neglected issue in care of older adults in India. — Manveen Kaur

COVID-19 and the Sugar Cane Cutter Migrants of Maharashtra

30 There is an urgent need to issue a policy resolution to ensure the social security and safety of sugar cane migrant labourers in the light of COVID-19 crisis. — Prashant Bansode

Past Continuous: K M Munshi, Gujarat and the Patan Trilogy

36 An inquiry into K M Munshi's life when it witnessed the famous Patan trilogy. The questions are situated in both cultural history and literature. — Rita Kothari, Abhijit Kothari

The Empire's South Indian 'Coolies' in Postcolonial Malaysia

43 Malaysian Indians form 7% of Malaysia's population and 80% of them are descendants of the British Empire's "coolies." Though an integral part of the nation's polity, they are a marginalised underclass. The coolies' plight can be resolved through a class-based policy strategy that addresses the root cause of their social and economic precarity. — Viswanathan Selvaratnam

Reimagining Region and Culture in Telangana

51 The return of patronage culture in Telangana calls for a re-examination of democratic claims made on behalf of "Telangana's cultural turn." Marginalised groups are also unable to move towards a common ethical and moral standard as culture is seen from the restricted logic of politics of representation. — Imtiaz Quadri

Agrarian Contradictions and the Conception of 'Kisan'

58 This response to "Peasants and Their Interlocutors: Swami Sahajanand, Walter Hauser and the Kisan Sabha" (EPW, 16 May 2020) by Manish Thakur and Nabanipa Bhattacharjee argues for a more nuanced understanding of agrarian class relations by incorporating the significance of caste. — Anand Chakravarti

Postscript

63 Amoolya Rajappa on mobile media being intricately interwoven into the public and private lives of migrant workers; a poem by Alok Sheel; Anandita Pan on caste and gender in Tagore's Chandalika; and last lines by Ponnappa.
